NOVEMBER DRIVE FOR CHARITIES

FACTIONS UNITED

FOR HELPFUL INTERESTS OF

SAN DIEGO COUNTY

The reorganized Community Chest of San Diego County will hold its appeal for funds in November, is the announcement of Dr. Roy Campbell, Campaign Chairman. A better service to the outlying towns and their representation on the Campaign Council is planned, and a County Emergency Fund has been set up for emergency relief in outlying towns. Of particular interest is the fact that the American Red Cross Roll Call has been merged with the Community Chest Appeal and the Red Cross membership receipts will be issued by Chest volunteer workers, of whom there will be over fifteen hundred.

It is announced that the Catholic Welfare Bureau, which includes the Children's Home, the family relief department and a clinic, has joined the reorganized Community Chest. Catholics, Jews and Protestants are now banded together in the mutual desire to increase the happiness and welfare of the county.

Community Chest campaign headquarters have been opened at 1151 Sixth street, San Diego. Telephone Main 5750.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY BY PENINSULA MASONIC LODGE NEXT SATURDAY

The members of Peninsula Masonic Lodge will hold a birthday anniversary celebration next Saturday, Nov. 6, in the lodge rooms on Newport avenue, all Masons being invited.

Need More Policemen

SERIES OF ROBBERIES

AT OCEAN BEACH

Added proof was given this week of the need of an increase in the number of police patrolmen in the beach district. The home of A. Pierce at 4601 was entered by thieves last Tuesday and a sum of money stolen.

The Carl Service Station on Voltaire street was robbed of tools and batteries last Wednesday night. On the same evening thieves entered the residenc of E. L. Casman at 4118 Voltaire and assortment of household goods as well as guns and a portable radio set.

Several burglaries were reported last week-end in the Loma Portal section and a police net has been spread for a number of suspicious characters in the beach and bay districts.

POLICE ON GUARD

DURING HALLOWE'EN

With the assignment of the entire police force to duty this Saturday night, Chief of Police James Patrick, has instructed all men to guard against the destruction of property by gangs of merrymakers on Hallowe'en. Officers are ordered to break up parties not accompanied by responsible adults.

Put Beach Booster On Superior Bench

JUDGE CHAS. B. DE LONG

TAKES ACTIVE PART IN

SEASIDE AFFAIRS

Among the host of ardent supporters of Justice Charles B. DeLong for election to the superior bench, Nov. 2, are scores of voters who became American citizens through attendance at his night classes for aliens, which he has conducted for many years without charge to the students.

To those who attended these classes, American citizenship and with it the privileges of the ballot have been held up by Judge DeLong as the highest of honors and ideals.

Where many American born citizens fail to exercise the right of franchise, the naturalized citizen who fails to vote is the exception rather than the rule.

At the last primary election about one-eighth of the citizens of this county decided the issues on the ballot, while only about one half of the eligibles took the trouble to register as voters.

"A man whose ideal is to make good citizens—if he has the other qualifications—is the man we need on the superior bench. He will have the sympathy needed to deal with youths and men who have stumbled on life's path," declared a prominent official in commenting on the candidates for the judicial place that is to be filled next Tuesday, Nov. 2.

Judge Charles B. DeLong has resided in San Diego for more than 28 years. For 10 years he practiced law here, and then, in 1923, he took his place on the bench in justice court. There he has handled over 20,000 cases in criminal, civil and small claims departments, gaining a wide experience and a deep insight into every branch of court work. Judge DeLong owns a seaside residence at Mission Beach and was president of the M. B. Chamber of Commerce last year, being then, now and always a true-blue booster of the beach districts of San Diego.

HONORS FOR BANK OFFICIAL

D. M. Plaister, vice-president of the Southern Trust and Commerce bank and general manager of the branch banks of that institution, has been elected to the presidency of the Escondido National Bank to fill the vacancy arising upon the recent death of F. B. Fuller in San Diego. The Escondido institution is soon to be merged with the Southern Trust and Commerce banks.

MILLIONS IN SCHOOL SAVINGS

School boys and girls of the United States have about $30,000,000 deposited in school savings banks, according to an estimate by the National Educational Association.

NEW SCHOOL STREET WANTED

The board of education has asked the city council to take the proper proceedure for opening a strip of land across private property, between Zola and Voltaire streets, in order to provide better access to the Point Loma high school. The new thoroughfare would be fifty feet wide.

CONCRETE HOSPITAL FOR A. & N. ACADEMY

SAN DIEGO STREET RAILWAY COMPANY RE-ARRANGES OCEAN BEACH CAR SERVICE

Effective Monday morning, Nov. 1, 1926, shuttle service in Ocean Beach will be operated during the off-peak hours, according to announcement by Mr. S. E. Mason, General Manager of the Company, who states this will make a considerable reduction in car miles operated in running the No. 14 cars clear through to the city on these trips. This shuttle service will be in effect between the hours of 10:44 a. m. and 2:44 p. m., and again from 6:44 p. m. until the last car at 12:09 a. m. All other cars will continue to make the through trips as at present. During the time shutle service is maintained, passengers will transfer to and from the La Jolla, Route No. 16, cars at Ocean Beach Junction, and except for the transfer feature, will obtain the same thirty-minute service and schedules as heretofore.

Mr. Mason explains that the Ocean Beach line is not now paying expenses, and rather than lengthen the headway, making less frequent and desirable service, a greater saving can be accomplished by the elimination of the mileage during the off-peak between the Junction point and the city proper, which will not inconvenience a very large proportion of the traveling public at Ocean Beach, and feels sure that this change will not meet with serious objection by the few so inconvenienced, inasmuch as the results sought by the change are so clearly justified and the method adopted to reduce the cost is so preferable to the alternative of inaugurating less frequent service.

Reference to the official timetable, published on another page in the business columns of "The Beach News," will show no change in the regular half-hourly schedule existing in the past. During the lax mid-day hours and the late evening hours, shuttle cars will operate with transfers to and from No. 16 cars at the Ocean Beach junction, and except for the transfer feature the former 30-minute service will be continued.

GOOD SPIRIT OF STUDENTS

"The students this year have taken up their work exceptionally well," says the faculty. The order in the halls has been good and is still improving, and the conduct on the street cars and busses has been orderly. The students are getting right down to hard work, and this year promises a longer list of honor roll students than last year.

CIVIC OPPOSITION TO WATER ACT

PROPOSITION NO. 18

CONSIDERED MOST DANGEROUS

ON ELECTION BALLOT

Proposition No. 18 on the ballot, November 2nd, is the most important itme under consideration—the most important because it is the most dangerous. This measure is known as the Water and Power Act and pledges the credit of California to an issue of $500,000,000 in tax exempt bonds. Friends of the Act declare that it absolutely is not a bond issue and point out the fact that this entire sum will be returned to the state treasury out of "profits" from the various water and power enterprises. However, the framers of this measure are not so sure there will be any such "profits" for they make explicit provision that losses and interest charges may be "temporarily" advanced from the general fund of the state.

Inasmuch as it is the intention to use the $500,000,000 in replacing taxable securities, through the purchase of privately owned water and power companies, your present tax rate must of necessity be increased to replace this loss in revenue.

Mutual Water Associations, publically owned by California farmers, are asking the voter to protect their interest by defeating this proposed measure.

The Water and Power Act is also opposed by California civic organizations, including the San Diego Chamber of Commerce.

ENLARGEMENT PLANNED

FOR HOME HAND LAUNDRY

IN NEW BUILDING

Established by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Murphy for fifteen years at Third and Ash streets, San Diego, the Home Hand Laundry has recently been removed to a substantial new building at 1202 Garnet avenue, Pacific Beach. Its a complete daylight plant with the latest modern equipment and business has increased so rapidly since the opening about a month ago that Mrs. Rose Murphy is already planning to enlarge the present commodious building. "Service that Serves" is the motto of the Home Hand Laundry which does all kinds of laundry work, as well as cleaning and pressing, while a specialty is made of fancy hand work. HARRY E. WEBBER PROCLAIMED PROPER MAN FOR CONSTABLE

It is asserted that there is no branch of public service that needs a man of vision, understanding and courage as much as the office of Constable, and the many friends of Harry E. Webber proclaim him such a man. He has the record of rendering excellent service during the two terms he has been in office; is a devoted and enthusiastic worker, courteous to all and untiring in his efforts to please the public. Webber's boosters hope that the voters of San Diego Township will preserve the public service by re-electing Harry E. Webber to the office of Constable at general election next Tuesday.

SCHOOL DAYS

Mother's Cook Book

Oh, suns and skies and clouds of June,
And days of June together,
Ye cannot rival for one hour,
October's bright blue weather.
—H. H. Jackson.

WITH BROWN SUGAR

THE flavor of brown sugar is so generally liked that it adds to any dish. In the good old childhood days there was nothing that tasted better than bread and butter sprinkled with brown sugar. Let the children have it. It is cheaper than candy and much more healthful and it will satisfy the natural craving which every child has for sweets.

Brown Sugar Pudding.

Beat two egg yolks with one scant cupful of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of flour and one tablespoonful of creamed butter. Mix smooth, then add one cupful of rich milk, gradually until smooth. Cool slightly and add the beaten whites of eggs. Mix lightly and serve garnished with cubes of grape jelly.

Brown Sugar Parfait.

Take one-half cupful each of brown sugar and water, cooking without stirring, shaking the pan often to prevent burning. When a drop from a spoon makes a thread, remove from the heat and pour over two well-beaten egg whites. Beat until cold, then add one cupful of cream whipped stiff, flavor and pack in a mold; pack in ice and salt for three hours.

Brown Sugar Taploca.

Soak four tablespoonfuls of taploca in one quart of cold milk, add a pinch of salt, butter the size of an egg, half a cupful of brown sugar and half a cupful of raisins. Bake two hours.

Brown Sugar Frosting.

Beat the white of an egg until stiff, add two tablespoonfuls of water, three cupfuls of brown sugar and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat thoroughly before adding the flavoring.

Peanut and Brown Sugar Candy.

Roll after shelling and removing the brown skins, one pound of peanuts, until like coarse crumbs. Into a smooth iron frying pan place two pounds of brown sugar and twelve tablespoonfuls of butter. Stir until melted and smooth, then cook exactly seven minutes from the time of the first boiling, stirring constantly. Pour over the peanuts or stir them in, and pour into a well-buttered pan to cool.

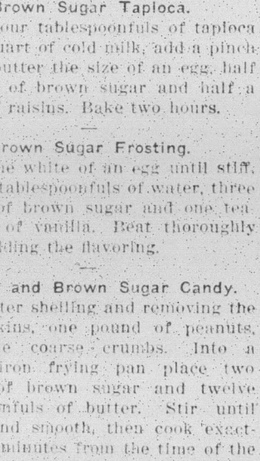

Brown Sugar Sauce.

Boil one cupful of brown sugar, one-half cupful of water, one tablespoonful of vinegar, and one of flour until smooth, then add a tablespoonful of butter and serve on cottage pudding.

GIRLIGAGS

"I don't favor balloon trousers as a general thing," says withering Wilhelmina, "but I have seen some men in knickers who ought to wear them."

As Told by Irvin S. Cobb

HISTORY REVERSED

THERE used to be a character in Missouri, a transplanted Kentuckian, a self-appointed colonel and a veteran of Shelby's command, who was a born orator and an inspired romancer.

One sunny afternoon he was holding forth to an attentive and sympathetic audience upon the part he had played in the war between the states. It was rather to be inferred that he was one of the main reasons why the Confederacy endured, against odds, for four years. He progressed to where he was enriching history with an account of the first engagement in which he had participated.

"Gentlemen," he proclaimed, "envisage the scene. There we stand, a little group, armed for the most part with nondescript weapons, with flintlock muskets, with scythes, with axes, even with cudgels. We are underfed, half shod and ragged, yet inspired by the dauntless resolution and splendid valor which sustained the Southron heart. Over the slope and straight against our line come pouring the northern hordes, those relentless invaders of our beloved Southland, lusty and strong and equipped with every appliance for conducting warfare that modern science can provide.

"We are outnumbered three to one; we are weak from hunger while they are lusty with bacon and beef. But none among us quails. A righteous belief in our sacred cause inspires us, every one. Each one feels himself a giant. And what is the result? Suddenly we leap forward in the charge. We grapple with them, we fight like demons. And, gentlemen, such is the impetuosity of our attack, such the ferocity of our blows that soon the blue lines break and, in mad disorder routed, the enemy flees, unable to face that irresistible torrent of southern manhood."

From the audience spoke up a gray-bearded listener.

"Say, looky here, kurnel," he said. "I was in that there fight myself, and whut really happened wuz that them plegged Yanks give us a fust-rate lickin' and run us ten miles acrost country."

With a magnificent gesture of surrender the colonel rose to his feet.

"Gentlemen," he said, "another instance of a good story spoiled by a d—n eyewitness!"

My Daughter's Birthday

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WITH all your friends around you—
And many I hope there are!—
In that new home you've found you,
That always seems so far,
On this, the day of all days
For mortals to be glad,
I hope that you recall days,
Old birthdays with your dad.

May this day be a fair one,
Your buds begin to blow,
With maybe here and there one
Like buds of long ago.
Not long—I beg your pardon!—
But long it seems to me
Since baby ran the garden
And dad was there to see.

With all your years before you—
And many I hope the year!—
With blue skies ever o'er you
And good friends ever near,
If fate should ever fling you
A birthday that is sad,
Ah, then may memory bring you
A birthday with your dad!

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

PLAYING TO GALLERIES

ALAS! for the young man or woman, just making his or her debut in life's great drama, who seeks the empty plaudits of the galleries!

Laudations that pass current among the gallery dogs are not acceptable to people who habitually weigh coins on scales that never fail to detect the spurious.

If you are cast for the leading parts, and have the proper qualities of manhood or womanhood, you will close your ears to the meaningless dins and clanging of the ignorant.

Instead, you will seek words of encouragement from those who are capable of passing judgment, of giving helpful advice and worth-while criticism.

It is not possible to succeed in any other way.

If you are really sincere, unbiased criticism will spur you to higher effort and harder work.

It is only by comprehending and overcoming your own weakness that you can hope to become strong. It is under certain conditions good to be proud, but under conditions which are bound to affect your future, it is better to be humble.

It is better to face the fact and know, than to go stumbling through error and wandering round and round in circles, dazed by the noisy handclappings of the galleries.

The man or woman who disdains counsel, who holds back from supreme effort when the true test comes, is in the same case with the soldier who runs away from battle.

To avoid an occasion for such failure, stand up and make a plucky fight for the good, the pure and the noble things that give endurance and ultimately a rich reward.

The galleries cheer only the spangles and the tinsels.

They can appreciate nothing that symbolizes the spiritual, for they are blind to the beauties of the heavens and deaf to the still, small voice that warns constantly of the swift passing of pride, and wealth.

The problem of life is not to live, but how to live nobly, in peace with your neighbors and with all mankind.

So strive for a good name, a clean conscience, a heart attuned to righteousness, and all the other things which you may wish and hope for will come to you as naturally as the roses come to the gardens in June.

BOY HERO SAVES DROWNING GIRLS, THEN "BEATS IT"

Freckled Youth Scampers Away to Avoid Thanks of Grateful Parents.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Probably his pals call him "Ginger," or "Red," or "Brick"; his mother may call him Thomas, or Richard, or Henry—but Mr. and Mrs. Robert Courtney of Rochester, Pa., call him blessed.

He sat on the end of Yachtmen's wharf, at the entrance to the inlet—a freckled barefoot twelve-year-old in cotton shirt and overalls, his ruddy thatch innocent of any covering, his bright eyes fixed intently on the tip of a gangling, makeshift fish pole that now and then dipped promisingly into the swift tide rip below. Beside him, of course, dozed his dog—just the tawny, canine nondescript he should have been.

Plunge Into Sea.

Across the pier, their noisy antics bringing an occasional frown of disapproval to the earnest young fisherman's speckled face, the Courtney children—Martha, four, and Jane, six—romped and tumbled in careless glee. Then, suddenly, the racket ended in two shrill shrieks and a double splash.

Borne rapidly by the strong current, two struggling little forms were swept beneath the long fishpole, just as another body hit the water near them. Reaching out to grasp the larger child by the hair, the boy, an excellent swimmer, fought his way to her sister. Unable to spare a hand to the task of keeping Martha afloat, he set his teeth in the shoulder of her dress and hung on. Helpless to return, against the current, the rescuer and his charges drifted swiftly seaward.

Drifted Swiftly Seaward.

Then Scoots Away.

Two men in a rowboat heard the girls' cries, reached the trio in a few minutes and pulled them aboard. When the boat landed on the beach the small crowd that had gathered joined Mr. and Mrs. Courtney in devoting first attention to the little girls. Assured their children were unhurt, the grateful parents turned to praise the youngster. Far down the beach, rapidly retreating, they saw a boy, and a long fishpole and a dog. As they called he broke into a run and soon disappeared. None in the gathering knew who he was.

Robber Swears War of Revenge on All Women

New York.—George W. Ford had the hardihood to hold up a bank with only a pencil for a weapon but he was unable to save the loot from two burlesque chorus girls.

He was locked behind bars in Tombs prison while police had in their possession two letters in which he admitted the robbery of the Peninsula State bank of Highland Park, Mich., last July, when he obtained $8,000. He was once employed in the bank, he said.

Ford seemed more determined to have revenge on the chorus girls than to avoid being caught for the robbery. One of his letters read:

"I deserted a wife who never loved me, and two children who did; robbed a bank and became an outcast for a brunet chorus girl who lived with me for three days, then left for parts unknown with the cash from the bank I robbed.

"Henceforth and hereafter I declare war on all women until I am either hung, shot, or electrocuted."

The chorus girl mentioned in the letter had a partner, "a peroxide blond given to much lipstick," whom Ford also accused of being implicated in taking of $1,300 of the unspent bank loot.

"The Detroit newspapers said that I was armed with an automatic," he wrote, "but the truth is that I knew Frank Felton, the manager, had been held up twice before inside of six months and was gun shy, so the automatic I pointed at him was only a pencil, with the cap and eraser pulled out."

Robert Bruce

ROBERT BRUCE, of Scotland—a man without a home, a king without a throne, a ruler without subjects—lay hidden in a tumble-down hut one day early in the Fourteenth century, while the soldiers of King Edward I of England scoured the surrounding country under orders to capture the fugitive monarch dead or alive. As the luckless Bruce gazed idly about him he noticed a spider swinging from a strand of web that it was trying to affix to the opposite wall. Six times the spider swung and failed. The king grew interested. He had been half minded to give up his own useless struggle against England's mighty power. But, noting the insect's perseverance, he took heart. He resolved that if the spider should win in its task of fixing the web to the opposite wall, he himself would once more attempt to resist England's invasion. On the seventh trial the spider succeeded; and Bruce, true to his pledge, set forth to renew his own hopeless warfare.

North Britain, the country later known as Scotland, had never wholly been conquered in the Roman invasion. Its inhabitants, savages known as Picts and Scots, had for centuries resisted all attempts to crush them as other savage tribes had been crushed. But at last Scotland had fallen under English influence and had become a mere Anglo-Norman feudal monarchy.

A question arose in 1292 as to succession to the throne. Edward I, king of England, was asked to decide the matter; and, through his influence, a puppet of his own, John Baliol, was chosen. This strengthened England's power in Scotland, and the unhappy northern kingdom was almost passive under the English yoke. Baliol, urged on by malcontents, sought alliance with France and took up arms against England; but Edward speedily captured him, routed his armies and took Edinburgh and other Scotch strongholds.

Then, in the hour of Scotland's sorest need, when all her nobles were cringing at Edward's feet, a hero arose—a man of the people, William Wallace. Wallace raised a rabble of peasants and townsfolk, molded them into a well-trained, organized band; and in 1297 captured town after town from the English. The nobles held aloof from him, but the common people followed him devotedly. Edward sent a strong army to put Wallace down, deeming the revolt too petty for his own personal attention. Wallace, with a force many thousands inferior to the invaders, met this English army near Stirling.

Wallace's men were light-armed and ill-equipped and had less than 200 horses in all. The well-mounted English, in their heavy armor, looked for an easy victory. But, after a fierce battle, Wallace's peasants put them to flight. It was the first time in history that a disciplined feudal army was routed by a force recruited from the plain people. It was the beginning of the end.

Having repulsed the English, Wallace set to work reorganizing Scotland and reviving her shattered commerce.

Pressing his conquests he even invaded the north of England, thus carrying the war into the enemy's country. But, alarmed at the extent of the revolution, Edward sent a new army of 90,000 men against him. The nobles refused to help Wallace and his resources were only such as he himself could muster. Yet he won two battles against the stronger invader before the superior force overwhelmed and crushed his little army. Wallace was captured, sent to London and there, after a mock trial, the gallant patriot was hanged as a traitor.

Edward, as an example to future revolutionists, devastated Scotland, inflicting terrible penalty for England's former defeats. But the result was exactly opposite to what he had planned. A nobleman, Lord Robert de Bruce (or Robert Bruce) revolted, drawing about him the Scottish nobility. He was crowned King of Scotland in 1306. Edward at once attacked him, driving him from the throne, and again ravaging the stricken country. It was during this period that Bruce took his life lesson from the spider in the hut whither he had fled for refuge.

Almost at once, upon Bruce's resolve to try once more to save Scotland, the turn of fortune came. Edward I died and was succeeded by his weak, dissolute son, Edward II. Taking advantage of the latter's indolence, Bruce raised a strong army, and by 1313 had won back nearly all of Scotland. The next year the last and most decisive battle of the war was fought at Bannockburn (Bannock Creek). Bruce, by better knowledge of the marshy, uneven ground and by superior generalship, won the day. His Scottish spearmen fought on foot in a circular formation somewhat like the modern military "square," and through this circle of steel the English knights could not break. Again it was proven that the flower of chivalry could make no headway against well-generaled private soldiers. The English were utterly routed.

Never again, though many other conflicts arose, did England wholly subdue Scotland.

At last, in 1603, the two nations became one, under James I of England, who chanced to be natural heir to both thrones.

TWO FAMOUS WOMEN BORN IN SAME YEAR

Queen Victoria and Lydia E. Pinkham

MRS. ANNA McHENRY
1005 E. PLUM STREET, MARSHALL, ILLINOIS

In the year 1819, two babies were born whose lives were destined to have a far-reaching influence. One was born in a stern castle of Old England, the other in a humble farmhouse in New England.

Queen Victoria through her wisdom and kindliness during a long and prosperous reign has become enthroned in the hearts of the British people. Lydia E. Pinkham through the merit of her Vegetable Compound has made her name a household word in thousands of American homes.

Marshall, Illinois.—"After my second child was born, I never saw a well day for five years. My father was telling his druggist about my condition, and the druggist insisted that father take a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have me try it, as it had helped his wife. I had given up, but to please father and mother, I commenced taking your medicine and in a week I had begun to feel better. When I passed through the Change of Life, I was taking the Vegetable Compound and I had no trouble of any kind."—Mrs. Anna McHenry, 1005 E. Plum St., Marshall, Illinois.

Another Woman Helped

Philadelphia, Penna.—Mrs. Caroline Nagy, of 2717 Sears St., in a recent letter to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., says that after her child was born she was in a very weak condition. She could not seem to regain her health and went to her mother for advice. She told her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it had helped her when in like condition, and it has helped her mother also. So Mrs. Nagy started taking it. She felt better after taking the first bottle,—after taking six bottles her weakness and other troubles disappeared, and she is never done praising the Compound.

In some families the fourth generation is learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

THE

Water and Power Act

COULD NEVER DIRECTLY BENEFIT SAN DIEGO COUNTY

Section 12 of the proposed Water and Power Act clearly provides that political subdivisions situated near the source of supply of water or electric energy, shall have preferred rights over those political subdivisions not so favorably situated.

HOW COULD SAN DIEGO BE BENEFITED?

We are remotely situated with respect to natural water supply sources. All we could hope for, under the provisions of the Act, would be increased taxation and the privilege of seeing more favored communities developed, NO MATTER WHAT THE COST, but at our expense.

THIS $500,000,000 WATER AND POWER ACT

has twice been defeated by substantial majorities. It is indeed regretable that the voters of this state must again reject a proposition of this nature. It would never be approved at an election where the majority of voters expressed their opinion, but there is always the chance that through lack of interest on the part of the majority such schemes will slip past, thus placing our glorious state in danger of bankruptcy. Hence we join with other service organizations in urging every able-bodied citizen to VOTE, but we especially ask you to

SCHUYLER C. KELLY PROVES COMPETENT OFFICIAL AS COUNTY CORONER

On duty day and night, here, there and everywhere throughout San Diego county, Coroner Schuyler C. Kelly is a mighty busy and able official. With the rapid growth in population something is happening all the time to command the attention of the coroner whose job it is to trail the tragedy. The unexpected happens at most any hour and in many different places, calling for the services of the coroner, and it's greatly to his credit that Schuyler C. Kelly never fails to be right there when wanted. His ability in most distressing situations is shown to exceptional advantage and his quick perception and prompt activity are highly comme so admirably fills. Coroner Kelly's mendable qualities for the position retention in office is a foregone conclusion and most worthily, too.

The office of the Coroner is at 1051 Front street, and the phone number is Main 1571, while the residence phone of Mr. Kelly is Hillcrest 2373.—adv.

BALBOA THEATRE

An American girl in Russia—love affairs with grand dukes and dashing young officers—thrilling adventures amidst a background of unexpected and romantic denouement!

That is the movie treat in store for patrons of the Balboa Theater starting today, when Constance Talmadge's latest comedy drama, "The Duchess of Buffalo," has its local premiere. This rollicking romance of a beautiful American dancer who becomes the toasted favorite of the Russian ruling class gives the vivacious star the kind of vehicle in which she is always seen at her best. Constance herself believes "The Duchess of Buffalo" to be her best picture, surpassing in audience appeal outstanding features such as "Her Sister From Paris" and East is West".

Fanchon and Marco offer one of their choicest "Specialty Ideas," with the "Mysterious Masked Countess," who puzzles her audiences. For the present, it is sufficient to know that she is an American-born singer from the Italien operatic stage, a woman of beauty and stunning figure.

Other artists appearing are De Bruin, tenor, Barbarina and his Pal, novelty act, Scotty Weston, sailor lad in clog dances, and Four Marvelous Harpists.

Al Lyons director of the Balboa Music Masters has arranged a unique musical number entitled 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.' A symphonic program of delightful numbers will be played in addition to the musical score for the stage presentation of songs and dances.

CABRILLO THEATRE

"Sweet Nell of Old Drury," pretty enticing, warmblooded, wreckles, generous, gay, tender and, in her every mood, adorable. That is Dorothy Gish, appearing in "Nell Gwyn" at the Cabrillo Theatre for one week.

Dorothy Gish presents a brilliant character study of "Nell Gwyn". It is a true-life romance, richly veined with comedy, the pathos of slum-life struggle, and dramatic love intrigue in royal palace halls.

The picture was made in London in the very haunts once trod by light-hearted Nell. Paramount is releasing "Nell Gwyn" in the United States and Canada.

Kinograms a comedy and other short subjects round out the program

REGULAR MEETING OCEAN BEACH P. T. A. NEXT TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The regular monthly meeting of the O. B. P.-T. A. will be held next Friday afternoon, Nov. 5, at 3:15 o'clock in the O. B. schoolhouse. The large number of new members entered at the October meeting was very encouraging. Each member is urged to be present next Friday and to bring a prospective member. The kindergarden has the largest number of representatives with 2-B and 3-B tied for second place. A fine prize is in store for the department having the largest number of mothers present during the year and there will be a special prize for the room with the largest attendance each month.

FREEDOM OF PRESS MOST ESSENTIAL ELEMENT IN AMERICAN LIBERTY

Right of Judges to jail and fine newspaper editors and writers who criticibze judicial proceedings on charges of contempt of court, should be invoked only in extremely aggravated cases.

Such is the opinion of Judge Frederick W. Houser of the Appllate Court, State of California, who for twenty years on the bench has never cited a newspaperman for contempt, although as a superior judge in Los Angeles County he handled many cases that kept the attention of the press for weeks at a time.

"Only where deliberate malice on the part of a newspaper editor is shown or in instances where a grave injustice is being done, should any judge no matter what his rank in judicial authority, invoke the contempt penalty," says Judge Houser.

"I have found newspapermen willing at all times to co-operate in the interests of law, order and justice, and to respect authority and never have I had a single reporter or editor violate my confidence.

"The freedom of the press is a most essential element in American liberty, and I fear the tendency on the part of some representatives of the judiciary to assume a too autocratic policy, muzzling the press at every turn, is a menace to the God-given rights of the people.

"The Judiciary of the state and nation must be respected in order to maintain its constituted authority, but this respect should be incurred through the unimpeachable character and conduct of our judges, rather than through a frequent and tyrannical use of the power vested in them by use of contempt of court charges."

NOTABLE CAREER OF CANDIDATE JOPLING

Howard S. Jopling is a native of Pennsylvania; a graduate of the public schools and also of the Wyoming College at Kingston, Pa. In 1912 he became mine engineer and foreman for the Pennsylvania Coal Co., resigning in 1917 to go overseas in the World War's fighting forces. At the close of the war he came to San Diego and became employment manager of the Savage Tire Co.; later he organized the Employment Specialists, now in the Spreckels Building. In 1921 he was deputy sheriff and secretary of the criminal department. In 1924 he was appointed captain of the state traffic force here, of which he is still a member. Mr. Jopling is a property owner of San Diego, residing with his family at 4151 Jackdaw street.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Believe it or not, Deputy State Controller Claude E. Cooper would have landed a 30-pound salmon on the Klamath river last week if he'd only had spurs and a saddle. This latest fisherman's alibi was brought to the capitol by Cooper and Harry Lutgens, private secretary to Governor Richardson, who have just returned from an angling trip on the northern stream. Salmon weighing from 15 to 30 pounds are running on the Klamath, according to the tale of the state officials, and they buck like wild mustangs. While Cooper was fishing in a shallow spot near the center of the stream, one of these bucking salmon swam between his legs. The unmon swam between his legs. The unto believe carried Cooper ten feet downstream and then upset him.

Glendale is the first city in California to undertake the preparation of a complete, comprehensive city plan, according to P. J. Hayselden, president of the Glendale city planning commission and executive secretary of the San Rafael Hills association. "Municipalities are gradually coming to realize the importance of planned cities and the necessity of building with the future in mind. Had comprehensive planning begun ten years ago, much of the reconstruction of streets, parks, sewer systems, and the like now going on in every city, would be unnecessary, and taxpayers would have been saved much money."

Wallace Beery, the movie star, may know a great deal about film dramas but apparently he is scarcely an expert on politics. On location with a movie company recently near Brodie, in the Mono Lake country, Beery purchased an old writing desk of the gold era vintage and in it he found an "instantaneous process" photograph of Senator Hiram W. Johnson, taken in 1886, when Hiram was 20 years old. Thinking that Johnson might appreciate the ancient photo, Beery forwarded it to the capitol at Sacramento. He addressed it to "Hiram W. Johnson, Governor of California."

Work on a plan for the first winter sports carnival ever held at Lake Tahoe is under way. A toboggan slide is being started on the crest of one of the hills surrounding the lake, and a landing is being constructed on a long flat near the lake shore. Two skating rinks are being constructed, while dog teams and reindeer teams are being included in the plans. That a heavy fall of snow will make possible the sports carnival, is the prediction of Humacktow, Washoe chief, who said that all indications point to an "old fashioned Sierra winter."

Many young trout are reported as dying on the banks of Lost Creek, Yuba county, as a result of the drawing of water from the Lost Creek reservoir by the Oroville-Wyandotte irrigation system. The bed of the creek below the dam is said to be almost dry, with the exception of potholes. Yuba county sportsmen will bring the matter to the attention of the state fish and game commission in the hope of saving the young fish, many of which were planted in the streams last summer.

A California sheriff cannot deduct time from the sentences of prisoners in the county jail, unless under provisions of a credit system for labor on public works or with specific authority from the board of supervisors. Attorney-General U. S. Webb so ruled in an opinion to District Attorney Leroy McCormack of Tulare county, who reported that a deduction of five days a month for jail inmates in some instances had been made in his county.

Members of the Redwood Highway association from the coast counties north of the bay region to Josephine county, Oregon, gathered in their annual meeting in San Francisco to outline continuation of their "empire building" program. Advertising and road building were two of the important topics. A proposal to change the name of the organization from Redwood Highway association to Redwood Empire association was made.

Pasquale Pugliese, porter of the Mount View hotel at Calistoga, for the past seven years, died at the Calistoga hospital as a result of eating castor beans. The beans were grown in the rear of the hotel property, and Pugliese, while talking to Joseph Ghisolfo, kept picking the beans and eating them. He was warned not to do so, but persisted. He was taken ill and was removed to the hospital, where he died in a short time.

No areas are now closed to travel in the national forests in northern California. This announcement is made by J. W. Nelson, acting district forester, who says the only territory closed to hunting this year in this part of the state were portions of the Tahoe national forest near Forest Hill, and French Meadows. This territory has since opened and no areas are closed at the present time.

An influx of civil engineers, timber experts, lumbermen and others connected with the lumber industry are constantly in touch with developments in Modoc county and southern Oregon in anticipation of several mills being installed in the above districts as soon as the Nevada, California and Oregon railroad broad-gauging is completed.

Three pretty maids from the College of the Pacific at Stockton, tied Stockton traffic into a knot and got away with it. Acting as copettes, they drew a tremendous throng as they misdirected automobiles as a part of their sorority initiation.

Construction of the first cotton gin in Glenn county is now completed at Hamilton City.

The Yuba and Sutter county Ministerial association met at Marysville recently and elected officers and went on record as opposing an amendment to repeal the Wright Act.

Miss Dora Jurgens died recently at her home in the Green Valley section near Placerville. She was a native of California and had lived in the Green Valley vicinity for sixty years. She was 66 years of age.

The high school trustees at a meeting held at Redding finally adopted the plans and specifications for the new high school building that is to be built with the proceeds of the sale of $375,000 in bonds.

The Mission Play Theater building at San Gabriel will be completed. Contract for the work has been awarded at about $200,000. The uncompleted structure, as it stands, today, was built in the spring of 1922.

The corpse of a female antelope, dug out of a glacier at the summit of Mount Shasta, nearly 14,000 feet in elevation, has arrived with great ceremony at the Academy of Sciences in Golden Gate Park at San Francisco.

The Southern Pacific Railroad announced that construction of 650 stock and flat cars, with a total valuation of $1,200,000 has begun in the Sacramento shops. The regular shop forces will be augmented by 150 workers during the building period.

A new co-operative grape juice company is just completing a large plant on the site for the former Urgon winery on the north bank of the Mokelumne river near Lodi, for the purpose of salvaging grapes belonging to those interested in the project.

The mines of California yielded $434,519,660 during the last year and the total production included fifty-five mineral types, it was announced by State Mineralogist Lloyd L. Root. California still produces 20 per cent of the nation's annual gold output.

The Pioneer Mercantile company of Susanville will have eighteen additional rooms ready for occupancy in the Pioneer hotel within the next two weeks. This is being done at an approximate cost of $12,000 and when completed will provide three large hotels for Susanville.

Mrs. W. W. Clay, resident of Esparto, Yolo county, presented all of her friends with bolls of cotton, nipped from the branches of several huge cotton plants grown upon her premises. She claims that Yolo's soil and climate is perfect for the growing of strong, healthy cotton at little cost.

Tracy bean men estimate the value of the Banta-Carbona irrigation district baby lima bean crop at $175,000. Production is said to be running up as high as sixteen bags to the acre, considered an excellent yield in light of the fact that as this is the first year the land has not been planted to grain.

At a recent meeting of the Wasco Farm center, a resolution was passed authorizing the appointment of a committee to investigate the advisability of bringing natural gas from the West Side oil fields to provide power for irrigation, and to consider the establishment of a farmer-owned telephone service.

The land owned in Amador county, by the Pacific Gas and Electric company and by the Stephen E. Kieffer and others, involved in condemnation proceedings brought by the East Bay Municipality Utility District for use in connection with the proposed Lancha Plana dam and reservoir site, is valued by the defendants at $14,000,000.

Herman D. Suhr, serving a life sentence in Folsom prison for murder growing out of the famous Wheatland hop field riots in 1913, was granted a parole by the state board of prison directors meeting at Folsom. Suhr's parole will become effective just as soon as he can obtain a job that meets with the approval of the prison directors.

F. P. Keen of the bureau of etomology, who with his assistant, W. J. Buckhorn, has been making an investigation in Modoc county, during the past few weeks covering the entire western division of the Modoc National forest reports that the ravages of the pine beetle are on the increase this season in some sections of that region.

For the second time in two weeks prisoners in the Lassen county jail at Susanville, have been unsuccessful in an attempted jailbreak. Mrs. H. Pearce, matron at the jail, heard a noise from the rear of the jail. She called Sheriff George Carter, who located a place in the wall where the prisoners had been working secretly for several hours prior to the discovery.

Steps will be taken soon at Yreka, toward the actual construction of a fair building on the Siskiyou county fair grounds purchased two years ago at an expense of $12,000. The board of supervisors at their meeting recently appropriated $26,000 for a building and listened favorably to the suggestion that work start at once in preparing the grounds and the foundations.

There will be a Dunsmuir day in all the Methodist churches in California in the near future. More than two years ago fire destroyed the Dunsmuir church, community hall and parsonage. The insurance served to pay off the debt incurred when the church had been rebuilt a few years previous and the local flock was left without funds. When Rev. H. E. Wells went to the annual conference recently he put before the pastors assembled the church's plight so the church board is turning over $20,000, and the work on a new edifice will begin soon.

MILLINERS LEAN TO VELVET; PARIS VERSIONS OF BLOUSES

SHIRR it, cord it, stitch it, fold it, drape it, tuck it and combine it in colors. These are in part some of the ways the fashionable milliner manipulates velvet this season. Furthermore velvet is being used for sports as well as dressy models. A sports velvet hat with a sports two-piece velvet frock is one of the happy happenings among fashionable folk.

Picture a shirred velvet hat in dark green worn with a Lanvin-green chiffon velvet dress of two-piece tailored mode. Wouldn't it be adorable? Better order your milliner to make you up one just like the cunning model shown first in this picture.

GROUP OF FALL HATS

As to the velvet beret it is the schoolgirl's joy and pride and the younger folks are just flocking to their nearest milliner to "try on" the latest models. When it comes to color it is hard to decide, they are all so perfectly captivating this autumn. Many of these new velvet tams are absolutely void of wire or support, others of more formal type are handsomely modeled like the fetching ribbon-trimmed black velvet type pictured in the center of this collection.

A favorite method among milliners is to cord the velvet hat. A splendid illustration of this effective handling is shown to the right at the top in the biscuit-colored hat whose crown is so expertly draped. Biscuit and beige are very popular millinery colors.

Two-color velvet combinations inspire the milliner to evolve charming creations such as portrayed in the draped hat in the lower right corner. In this instance two shades of nasturtium are used together.

The large black velvet hat is favored in Paris for dress occasions. It too must have a soft crown with an unusual drape. In the instance of the handsome model shown in the lower corner to the right in this picture, tucks are clustered about the top crown piece. The brim is graceful, being unwired at the edge.

Reflecting the prestige accorded to the two-piece frock in Paris, utmost importance is attached to the separate blouse. Now that the flair for color is rampant throughout the realm of fashion it follows that blouse distinction is attained in the vivid and startling. It is the sentiment of the French couturier that there is no danger of overindulgence in flamboyant effect, if the skirt be kept neutral or monotoned. In fact the mode encourages bold prints and embroideries for the silk velvet or metal cloth blouse, while the knitted blouse, which is very smart, by the way, is a matter of extreme color contrast.

At the races and all outdoor events the Parisienne delights in wearing a conspicuously colorful knitted blouse, such as is shown in the picture to the right. These are so finely knitted as to seem almost like cloth with a silken sheen.

Not by any means are gay silk prints passe when it comes to the blouse, a statement emphasized by the modernistic patterned blouse as shown under the cloth cape of the smartly attired figure at the left in the picture. To create the feeling of an ensemble there are sections of the gay print introduced into the plaited skirt.

TWO PARIS OFFERINGS

Very practical and youthful is a frock whose skirt of plaited deep red jersey is topped with a knitted striped blouse of many colors trimmed with collar, cuffs and an inset gilet of the solid red.

A more elaborate note is reflected in the jumper of metal cloth worn either with a velvet or crepe skirt.

GLOOMY GNU

"You know," said Daddy, "that the gnu is a very gloomy animal.

"I heard the other day of a gnu who had to be kept all by himself in the zoo where he belonged because of his gloomy nature and sullen ways."

"Couldn't the other animals ever cheer him up?" asked Nancy.

"No," said Daddy.

"In fact, he made all the other animals so depressed that they became as moody as he was.

"First the keeper of the zoo, being very much worried over the gnu's gloominess, put him with the laughing hyenas.

"They think a good deal of laughing and making queer sounds, but when the gnu was put near them they almost, almost, almost stopped their laughing.

"And it was a long time before they really enjoyed a good giggle once more.

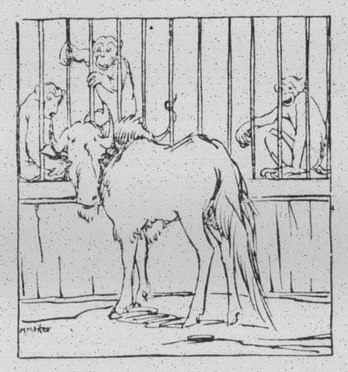

"Next he was put near the monkeys, for the keeper thought surely that their antics would amuse the gnu.

"But the monkeys became most sullen and the gnu never smiled.

"Next the keeper tried the jackasses, but instead of their making the gnu feel merry he made them pine and droop, and when he sneezed they felt frightened and thought something dreadful had happened.

"The only thing that seemed to interest him at all was his food, and when he'd see that being brought to him he'd lean way over and look from his yard, pulling his whiskers.

"At last the keeper decided he must have indigestion, though he only fed him wet and dry hay, clover and bran mash, all of which is very good for the gnu.

"But the keeper thought that surely the gnu must be sick to act so queerly, and at last he had a long talk with him.

"Of course a gnu can't really talk—not even the way a parrot can—but a zoo keeper is so used to animal language that he can usually understand it.

"This was what the gnu said:

"'The reason I seem so gloomy is because I'm terribly bored.'

"'Bored!' exclaimed the keeper.

"'That's a strange thing for you to be. You're a fine animal, you have plenty of other animals around you, you have even animals of your own kind, and you get all the food you want without having to hunt for it, and you are in no danger.'

"'That's just it,' said the gnu. 'I would rather get tired hunting for it than to have it given to me without any effort.

"'And it does bore me so to have people stop and look at me.'

"'Well, they won't much longer,' replied the keeper, 'for you'll make them cry you're so sad-looking, and people don't like to cry and have wet handkerchiefs.'

"'Oh, well, it seems so stupid!' said the gnu.

"'I'm not a beautiful painting nor a lovely sunset. I'm not worth looking at.

"'It's ridiculous, and it bores me.'

"'Take people as you find them and cheer up,' said the keeper.

"But the gnu didn't feel cheerful.

"And when you don't feel cheerful you don't feel immediately cheered because you are told to cheer up.

"And then the gnu is a gloomy creature anyway."

Sign of Measles

Many children in town had the measles and the health department had placed their warning cards on the doors of these homes.

Jimmie, aged four, and Junior, aged six, were on their way to town with their mother when Jimmie said: "They got the measles in that house."

"How do you know?" exclaimed Junior.

"'Cause," answered Jimmie, "they got their license on the door."

THE FEATHERHEADS — Out of Turn

RADIO

An Impedance-Coupled Browning-Drake Receiver.

If a careful analysis of the outstanding receiver circuits of the past twelve months be made, it is not unlikely that of them all there will be only a few that rate high in popular esteem by virtue of their excellence in performance. Of these few not many were patterned after other than the old, familiar tuned radio frequency plus regenerative detector circuit. In most cases, receivers are what they are because of the individual type of apparatus employed, providing that, to start with, a good circuit is selected.

The Browning-Drake, not an exception to the rule, is one receiver that amply illustrates this principle. First described in Radio Broadcast, this circuit has stood the test of time remarkably well. The circuit itself is not revolutionary; just a simple tuned, neutralized, radio-frequency amplifier, with regenerative detector. To this may be added any type of audio amplifier that strikes the fancy of the constructor. It is the tuned part of the receiver that requires the main attention because, with a good amplifier, the signal in the plate circuit of the detector tube may be amplified to the desired power and then outputted to a satisfactory loud speaker. In speaking so of the audio amplifier it is not the intent to belittle this very important section of a receiver; it is intended that emphasis be placed on that end of the receiver upon which we depend for the accomplishment of our tuning, for if that part of the receiver is not satisfactory the best audio amplifier in creation will not help matters.

The latest model of the Browning-Drake is the design of John B. Brennan, technical editor of Radio Broadcast Magazine, and is described by him in that publication.

The coils employed by the author are of a distinctly low-loss type, those specified being the special National Browning-Drake ones, space wound. However, it is a simple matter to construct the coils at home.

One problem in the design of a radio receiver has been to control volume effectively without affecting the quality of the output in the loud speaker. In cases where the volume control is incorporated in the audio amplifier channel of a receiver, some shifting of the audio frequency characteristics usually results when the control is varied. This change is one direct cause of imperfectness of quality. Some constructors place this volume control in the detector circuit; others in the radio-frequency amplifier circuit. In the Browning-Drake model described here the volume control, consisting of a variable 30-ohm resistance, is inserted in series with the filament ballast which regulates the flow of current to the radio-frequency tube. The advantages thus gained are two-fold: First, a very smooth control of volume is obtained without affecting the tone characteristic of the audio channel. Secondly, by placing the variable resistance in this position, overloading of the radio-frequency amplifier, especially on local station reception, is prevented. The control, at this point, enables the constructor to maintain a high degree of neutralization, which in turn allows of fine tuning without the probability of self-oscillation.

In the radio-frequency amplifier stage it was observed that a type 199 tube neutralized more perfectly and consistently than a 201-A tube. Also the actual gain for the 199 tube, taking into consideration the possibility of incomplete neutralization for the 201-A tube, was perhaps as much as with the latter, and is to be preferred in the final construction. In the detector circuit regeneration is obtained by the usual tickler method, whereby a movable coil is coupled to the secondary circuit. A 201-A tube is employed in this circuit.

For ease of assembly the National Impedaformers were selected, although if it is so desired, any standard type of choke coil, condenser and grid leak may be substituted. The National Impedaformers combine, in one unit, the choke coil, isolating condenser and grid leak; by means of convenient terminal posts it is a simple job to wire units into the circuit. Also, in the input unit, following the detector stage, a most serviceable radio-frequency choke coil is conveniently included within the housing. It is employed to insure against passing radio-frequency currents into the audio-frequency channel. The plate impedances L5, L6, L7 are of 100 henries each, and the grid leaks R5, R6, R7 are all 0.1 megohms. The isolating condensers C5, C6 and C7 are of 0.1 mfd. These values are given for those who prefer to buy their choke coils, etc., separately. Three stages of this impedance-coupled audio-frequency amplification are employed. In the first and second stages, high-Mu tubes permit of a higher amplification than if ordinary 201-A tubes were used. In the last stage a special output coil is included for the following reasons: Where quality output is desired of an audio amplifier, it is out of the question to use other than the type 112, 171, or other tubes especially designed for power work. With such a tube in the last stage better quality is obtained than if the 201-A type of tube were to be used. Since, with the power output type of tube, it is necessary to employ a high value of "B" battery voltage on the plate, it would be ruinous to do so without making some provision for the protection of the loud speaker windings. This is exactly what the output coil does. Instead of the drag that is exerted on the diaphragm of the loud speaker by the direct current when the output coil is not contained in the circuit, thereby tending partly to paralyze the diaphragm, the special output circuit places on the loud speaker an a. c. signal voltage, allowing the diaphragm to swing freely in synchronism with the signal impulses or discharges of the isolating condenser in this circuit.

The List of Parts.

In review of the circuit we find it consists of the following: A stage of tuned, neutralized, radio-frequency amplification and a regenerative detector followed by three stages of impedance-coupled audio-frequency amplification, in the output of which is arranged a special isolating device as a protection for the loud speaker.

To construct a receiver similar to the model described, the following parts should be obtained:

1 Micarta panel 3-16 in. by 7 in. by 21 in.
1 Radion subpanel 3-16 in. by 7 in. by 20½ in.
1 National BD-1B tuning unit (or homemade coils as described).
1 National B-D-2B tuning unit.
2 National Illuminated dials.
5 Benjamin Universal sockets.
3 National Impedaformers.
1 National Choke—100 henries.
1 Precise 50-mmf. tuning condenser.
1 XL neutralizing condenser; model N.
1 Sangamo 0.00025-mfd. fixed condenser with grid leak clips.
1 Electrad grid leak—5 megs.
1 Sangamo 0.005-mfd. fixed condenser.
2 Sangamo 1-mfd. fixed condensers.
3 Brachstats with mountings, types 1D, 2B and 3B.
1 Carter filament switch.
1 Carter filament control output jack.
1 Centralab rheostat—30 ohms.
2 Benjamin standard brackets.
12 Eby binding posts.
Brass strip 31 in. by ½ in. by 1-16 in. by 16 in.
10 1 in. by 6-32 RHBM screws with hexnuts.
16 ½ in. by 8-32 RHBM screws with hexnuts.
13 ½ in. by 6-32 RHBM screws with hexnuts.
6 ½ in. by 6-32 FHBM screws with hexnuts.
5 1 in. by 3-48 RHBM screws with hexnuts.
Lugs, bus bar and other wiring material.

Use of Power Tube to Give Greater Volume

Power tubes designed for use in the last stages of radio sets are designed to deliver a greater volume of signal to the loudspeaker than can be obtained with ordinary tubes without overloading them. The dry-cell power tubes are especially effective for use in operating loudspeakers from dry-cell tubes. Certain storage-battery and light-socket tubes deliver enough signal volume to furnish music for dancing in large halls. Power tubes are usually operated with higher "B"-battery and "C"-battery voltage than ordinary tubes, and must therefore be used in sets equipped with separate "B" and "C"-battery terminals for the power tubes.

Daisy Queen of Flowers

If asked to name the queen of flowers, the average person would probably vote for the rose. The botanist, however, would do no such thing. To the bontanist the stamens and pistils are the real flower. The petals are only the flower's clothes, and the make-up of the rose and all its family shows an early stage in flower development. The real queen of the flowers is the daisy. In the daisy the botanist finds the stages of development of all the other flowers in the seedsman's catalogue. There are about two hundred and fifty flowers or florets on each daisy. Even the white or pink-tipped rays are not petals but whole flowers, and the yellow boss of the shield consists of many other perfect little flowers, each making seed.

Common brick manufactured in the United States each year would build a wall 17 feet high and 8 inches wide around the entire country.

Are You "Toxic?"

It Is Well, Then, to Learn the Importance of Good Elimination.

FUNCTIONAL inactivity of the kidneys permits a retention of waste poisons in the blood. Symptoms of this toxic condition are a dull, languid feeling, drowsy headaches and sometimes, toxic backache and dizziness. That the kidneys are not functioning as they should is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many readers have learned the value of Doan's Pills, stimulant diuretic to the kidneys, in this condition. Users everywhere endorse Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

The regular monthly meeting of the Mission Beach Chamber of Commerce was hel dlast Monday, Chairman Ova Eckles presiding. Vice-President Al Lambla acted as secretary in the absence of Harry Turner, secretary. The resignation of Harry Turner as secretary, due to ill-health, was read and accepted. Mrs. Beth V. Paynter was appointed to act as secretary pro-tem until the next regular meeting when a permanent secretary will be elected.

TELEPHONE DISSATISFACTION

B. J. Little of the telephone company, was present and reported that it was the present plan of the company to list the Mission Beach subscribers under Pacific Beach exchange as at present, merely adding the words "Mission Beach" after the subscribers' names. Considerable dissatisfaction with this arrangement was voiced and it was moved and carried that the telephone company be urged to list the Mission Beach subscribers under San Diego city list in the next, the May issue, of the telephone directory and not under Pacific Beach. Through the State Railroad Commission, subscribers in Mission Beach are asking for the same rates as its immediate adjoining neighbor, Ocean Beach, pays.

RESIDENT PHYSICIAN

Dr. Ebon B. McGregor, of the U. S. Navy Medical Corps, will make Mission Beach his home, and has opened his professional office temporarily at 735 Whiting court.

REPRESENTS GRAND MATRON

To Mrs. Mary Fair Werre fell the honor during the Grand Chapter meeting of the Order of Eastern Star of the state, held at Coronado, last week, of being appointed as one of the two Deputy Grand Matrons in these southern parts for the ensuing year. In her district Mrs. Werre will be the personal representative of the Grand Matron of California.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Wonder entertained Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Marthens at dinner last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Marthens celebrated their crystal wedding anniversary with a dinner Thursday evening.

Mrs. W. S. Bing entertained at luncheon and bridge Wednesday, the guests being Mrs. Andrew Ervast, Mrs. A. Rezetti and Mrs. John Chambers.

TRIBUTE TO PROF. C. H. HALL

UNEXPECTED PASSING OF MOST NOTED AUTHORITY ON GREEK TESTAMENT

Mrs. G. M. Selby, of 3789 California street, left for Franklin, Ind., last Tuesday morning, being called there by the unexpected death of her father, Prof. C. H. Hall, D.D., who for many years held the chair of Greek at Franklin College, Indiana, and was vice-president of that institution for almost a quarter of a century.

Since the death of President Burton of the University of Chicago, Dr. Hall was probably the best posted authority on the Greek Testament living in this country.

In his early manhood he had translated a number of volumes of Greek literature which had never been translated into English. For several years various publishing houses have been corresponding with him, asking him to prepare these translations for publication, but to do so he needed an assistant with a knowledge of Greek and typing to assist him as he was too old and frail for the laborious part of the work. It had been Mr. Selby's plan to have her father winter with her at her Five Points home in San Diego, and while he was here to have him prepare these translations for publication. Just an hour before the receipt of the message of his death she had received a letter telling of his plans to join her soon.

Dr. Hall would have been eighty years old had he lived until Nov. 17. He came of a long line of New England ancestry and was much interested in the genealogy being compiled by his daughter and in her membership in the Society of Mayflower Descendants. He was an enthusiastic 32nd Degree Mason, and a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He is mourned by three sons, four daughters and an orphaned granddaughter who had always made her home with him.
